this new volume in uqp's history of the book in australia series explores australian book production and consumption from 1946 to the present day in the immediate postwar era most books were imported into a colonial market dominated by british publishers paper empires traces this fascinating and volatile half century using wide ranging research oral history and memoir to explore the worlds of book publishing selling and reading after 1945. Australian publishing went from a handful of fledgling businesses to the billion dollar industry of today with thousands of new titles each year and a vast array of imported books. Publishing's postwar expansion began with the baby boom and the increased demand for school texts with independent houses blossoming during the 1960s and 70s followed by the current era dominated by global conglomerates. All aspects of print culture are explored from authorship and editing to bookselling libraries and reading habits in the context of today's rapidly changing publishing landscape with its many technological challenges. A wide range of expert contributors including book trade practitioners have produced this lively and indispensable account of our vital cultural industry.

Angus Robertson and the British Trade in Australian Books 1930-1970 traces the history of the printed book in Australia particularly the production and business context that mediated Australia's literary and cultural ties to Britain for much of the twentieth century. This study focuses on the London operations of one of Australia's premier book publishers of the twentieth century, Angus Robertson. The book argues that despite the obvious limitations of a British dominated market, Australian publishers had room to manoeuvre in it. It questions the ways in which Angus Robertson replicated, challenged or transformed the often highly criticised commercial practices of British publishers in order to develop an export trade for Australian books in the United Kingdom. This book is the answer to the current void in the literary market for a substantial history of Australia's largest publisher and its role in the development of Australia's export book trade.

Now in its 37th edition and compiled in association with the Publishers Association, this is the most authoritative detailed trade directory available for the United Kingdom and the Republic of Ireland. Listing over 900 book publishers, comprehensive entries include, where available, full contact details including addresses and websites, details of distribution and sales and marketing agents, key personnel, listing of main fields of activity, information on annual turnover, numbers of new titles and numbers of employees. ISBN prefixes including those for imprints and series, details of trade association membership, information on overseas representation, details of associated and parent companies. In addition to the detailed entries on publishers, the directory offers in-depth coverage of the wider UK book trade and lists organizations associated with the book trade, packagers, authors, agents, trade and allied associations and services. The directory is also available to purchase as an online resource for more information and a free preview.
