socialist cosmopolitanism offers an innovative interpretation of literary works from the mao era that reads chinese socialist literature as world literature as nicolai volland demonstrates after 1949 china engaged with the world beyond its borders in a variety of ways and on many levels politically economically and culturally far from rejecting the worldliness of earlier eras

the young people's republic developed its own cosmopolitanism rather than a radical break with the past. Chinese socialist literature should be seen as an integral and important chapter in China's long search to find a place within world literature. Socialist cosmopolitanism revisits a range of genres from poetry and land reform novels to science fiction and children's literature and shows how Chinese writers and readers alike saw their own literary production as part of a much larger literary universe. This literary space reaching from Beijing to Berlin, from Prague to Pyongyang, from Warsaw to Moscow to Hanoi, allowed authors and texts to travel, reinventing the meaning of world literature. Chinese socialist literature was not driven solely by politics but by an ambitious but ultimately doomed attempt to redraw the literary world map.

emphasizing reference works published since 1964. These volumes cover books, periodicals and inclusions, i.e. chapters in edited volumes on the 1911 revolution, the Republic of China, 1949 post-1911 Taiwan, post-1911 Hong Kong and Macao, and post-1911 overseas Chinese.

The Linjilu record of Linji or Lj is one of the foundational texts of Chan/Zen Buddhist literature and an accomplished work of Baihua vernacular literature. This bracing new translation transmits the Lj's living expression of Zen's personal realization of the meaning beyond words as interpreted by ten commentaries produced by Japanese Zen monks over a span of over four centuries, ranging from the late 1300s when Five Mountains Zen flourished in Kyoto and Kamakura through the early 1700s, an age of thriving interest in the Lj.

This text explores the field of Asian art and its historiography, tensions and possible future directions. It features essays by 14 leading authors specializing in Chinese, East Asian, Indian and Japanese art history and considers what is meant by Asian art and how it should be understood in relation to geopolitics.
