a militant marxist atheist and a radical orthodox christian theologian square off on everything from the meaning of theology and christ to the war machine of corporate mafia what matters is not so much that Žižek is endorsing a demythologized disenchanted christianity without transcendence as that he is offering in the end despite what he sometimes claims a heterodox version of christian belief john milbank to put it even more bluntly my claim is that it is milbank who is effectively guilty of heterodoxy ultimately of a regression to paganism in my atheism i am more christian than milbank slavoj Žižek in this corner philosopher slavoj Žižek a militant atheist who represents the critical materialist stance against religion's illusions in the other corner radical orthodox theologian john milbank an influential and provocative thinker who argues that theology is the only foundation upon which knowledge politics and ethics can stand in the monstrosity of christ Žižek and milbank go head to head for three rounds employing an impressive arsenal of moves to advance their positions and press their respective advantages by the closing bell they have not only proven themselves worthy adversaries they have shown that faith and reason are not simply and intractably opposed Žižek has long been interested in the emancipatory potential offered by christian theology and milbank seeing global capitalism as the new century s greatest ethical challenge has pushed his own ontology in more political and materialist directions their debate in the monstrosity of christ concerns the future of religion secularity and political hope in light of a monsterful event god becoming human for the first time since Žižek s turn toward theology we have a true debate between an atheist and a theologian about the very meaning of theology christ the church the holy ghost universality and the foundations of logic the result goes far beyond the popularized atheist theist point counterpoint of recent books by christopher hitchens richard dawkins and others Žižek begins and milbank answers countering dialectics with paradox the debate centers on the nature of and relation between paradox and parallax between analogy and dialectics between transcendent glory and liberation slavoj Žižek is a philosopher and cultural critic he has published over thirty books including looking awry the puppet and the dwarf and the parallax view these three published by the mit press john milbank is an influential christian theologian and the author of theology and social theory beyond secular reason and other books creston davis who conceived of this encounter studied under both Žižek and milbank does the letter to the hebrews display jewish or christian identity ole jakob filtvædt shows that it takes up a traditional jewish category namely membership in god s people and proposes it for its audience as a collective identity but also significantly reshapes that category in light of belief in jesus publisher in his most ambitious book yet clifford pickover bridges the gulf between logic spirit science and religion while exploring the concept of omniscience pickover explains the kinds of relationships limited beings can have with an all knowing god pickover s thought exercises controversial experiments and practical analogies help us transcend our ordinary lives while challenging us to better understand our place in the cosmos and our dreams of a supernatural god through an inventive blend of science history philosophy science fiction and mind stretching brainteasers pickover unfolds the paradoxes of god like no other writer he provides glimpses into the infinite allowing us to think big and to have daring limitless dreams this work is a large powerfully illustrated interdisciplinary natural sciences volume the first of its kind to examine the critically important nature of ecological paradox through an abundance of lenses the biological sciences taxonomy archaeology geopolitical history comparative ethics literature philosophy the history of science human geography population ecology epistemology anthropology demographics and futurism the ecological paradox suggests that the human biological and from an insular perspective successful struggle to exist has come at the price of isolating h sapiens from life sustaining ecosystem services and far too much of the biodiversity with which we find ourselves at crisis level odds it is a paradox dating back thousands of years implicating millennia of human machinations that have been utterly ruinous to biological baselines those metrics are examined from numerous multidisciplinary approaches in this thoroughly original work which aids readers particularly natural history students who aspire to grasp the far reaching dimensions of the anthropocene as it affects every facet of human experience past present and future and the rest of planetary sentience with a preface by dr gerald wayne clough former secretary of the smithsonian institution and president emeritus of the georgia institute of technology foreword by robert gillespie president of the non profit population communication this useful and practical book provides the college student seminarian church study group and interested lay person with a much needed introductory guide on the how method and the what message of jesus teachings in this revised edition robert stein updates his classic work adds a new bibliography and introduces use of the new revised standard version of the bible bringing this important text to a new generation of students if we were made for relationship with god why do we often feel lost and distant from him the life of christian faith is and always has been a beautifully awkward reality following jesus is done can only be done in the messiness of this world into which we were all born yet many christians expect the walk of faith to be easier neater and relatively devoid of hassles so perhaps it s time for a frank conversation about the true nature of christian faith maybe there are many desperately in need of a clear dialogue about how despite living in a turbulent chaotic world our greatest joy is found in our pursuit of god in the grand paradox ken wytsma seeks to help readers understand that although god can be mysterious he is in no way absent god s ways are contradictory and counter to the way the world tells us to pursue happiness doubt is okay it will accompany in the life of faith what looks like struggle can actually be the most important and meaningful season of our lives this book is an exploration of the art of living by faith it is a book for all those wrestling with the paradoxes that confront those who seek to walk with christ it s an honest look at how faith works here and now in our culture our time and how to put down real roots and flourish in the midst of our messy lives when john dominic crossan s book in parables the challenge of the historical jesus was published in 1973 it was heralded as a major development in research both on the parables and on the historical jesus this was due not only to its sophisticated use of historical literary and philosophical disciplines but also to the sensitive way in which they were combined and to the novel insights that resulted when this combination was focused on individual parables the present book continues most directly and explicitly the study initiated by in parables and may be regarded as bringing that earlier volume up to date on three major issues conceptually the emphasis on metaphor from in parables has led to the discussion of polyvalence or semantic pluralism in Jesus's parables pluralistic meaning is an intensely paradoxical concept and it raises issues that touch the very roots of our consciousness and our reality metaphor is now no longer a clearing within the forest of language but is rather the very ground of that language itself any given metaphor illumines and reveals the radical metaphoricity of all reality philosophically the question is raised whether the polyvalence inherent in metaphor along with the critically iterated claims for its untranslatability may be better explained as a surplus of meaning or as an absence of the meaning a refusal of canonical meaning which is then the necessary but negative basis for the plurality of meanings and the abiding fecundity of interpretations exegetically as specific example and deliberate narrational metaphor of the entire book Jesus's serenely pastoral parable of the sower with its specified triad of gains its plurality or polyvalence both of failure and success is centrally discussed as textual focus for the volume the world is so wonderfully designed only by blatant dishonesty can anyone doubt there must be a designer god there is nothing manufactured without purpose god claims responsibility for all creation and has a purpose and predetermined plan for all nothing happens on earth without the permissive will of god none of us chose to be born god decided who should be born where and how long one can live at the end of which is judgment the mysteries of life are resolved through a personal relationship with Jesus Christ the only prescribed way avoid religion a man made deception agent
